FCTV & THE FALMOUTH CHRISTMAS PARADE

Thanks to the efforts of some dedicated volunteers from both the Chamber of Commerce and FCTV, along with the gracious hospitality of Russ Texeira and his SuperLube staff and family, FCTV's coverage of the 2007 Falmouth Christmas Parade went off without a hitch and made for a cold, but enjoyable afternoon of on-location television production.

Volunteers Nick Riebesehl, Kevin Lynch, Andy Robinson and staffer Scott Kane braved the chill and crowds to provide the camera work for the event. Simon Craythorn, as he has for so many productions in the past, once again provided his audio expertise to make sure the proper mix of voices and sound brought the spirit of the event to the channel. Chamber volunteers Pat Thatcher-Hill and John Johnston and provided the program with a smooth, warm polish as the television announcers.

Special thanks also must go out to Jay Zavala and the Chamber's Todd Bidwell who were key liaisons between the two organizations. Once again, the FCTV AnyCast system, a new battery in the van from Falmouth Mobil, along with the hard-working volunteer crew helped get all the pieces in place.

We can't wait for 2008!
