FCTV SUMMER INTERNS

This summer we have a pair of Falmouth High School graduates that are working as interns. They are currently assisting staff as well as working on a new in-house production for Channel 13.

Meaghan Corson will be a sophomore at Emerson College this fall and is working as a lifeguard at the Falmouth Beaches this summer. In addition to working on summer productions, she's assisted with the Basic Studio class and has directed both Selectmen and Zoning Board of Appeals meetings from Town Hall.

Ben Hassey will be a sophomore at Fitchburg State College this fall and is working on his own documentary in his spare time this summer. Ben has already assisted FCTV in several in-house productions including FCTV coverage of Falmouth High School Graduation, and taken part in several other volunteer productions as well.

Ben and Meaghan are currently co-producing a new summer news magazine program and will be seen around town videotaping, as well as editing here at FCTV.

We're excited to have two of Falmouth's finest young adults taking an active part in enhancing FCTV as they work toward forwarding their careers in communications.
